

This page will be a general store page for a particular item built as an extension to Week 1’s assignment. This will be a page listing the item, an image of the item, the price of the item, and a purchase button (nonfunctional for now).

The layout will be like Amazon’s. An image of the item will be located along the left side, with the name of the item in the center-right of the screen with the price information below it. An “add to cart” button will be present somewhere on the right side of the page. The add-to-cart button will be styled as similarly to the example below as possible, with internal colors and potentially an outline.
